

Video Production Shoot Checklist

A video production shoot involves multiple stages, from pre-production to post-production, from concept to delivery. Here's a breakdown of the process:

1. Pre-Production (Planning & Preparation)

- Concept Development - What is the idea? What is the goal?
- Interview questions or scriptwriting - Get writing!
- Storyboarding - Visualize the scenes through drawings or animations
- Casting - Source your talent
- Location Scouting - Studio, or a location that suits the messaging
- Scheduling - Dates / times / logistics
- Crew & Equipment Hiring - the people and kit to make the magic happen!
- Budgeting - Location fees, crew wages, and equipment rental.

2. Production (Filming the Video)

- Setup - be ready before the talent
- Rehearsals - practice makes perfect
- Filming - time to put the planning into action
- Direction - detailed instruction to bring the vision to life
- Sound Recording - dialogue, sound effects, and environmental sounds.
- Lighting Adjustments - lighting will determine mood
- B-Roll - supplementary footage- background shots or close-ups.

3. Post-Production (Editing & Finalizing the Video)

- Editing the video, following the script and storyboard.
- Sound design, adding sound effects, music, and dialogue.
- Color grading, adjusting the coloring and lighting of the footage.
- Visual effects, adding animations, CGI, or other special effects.
- Motion graphics, incorporating graphics and titles as needed.

- Final review & revisions, team review and client approval
- Sound Mixing, finalize sound balancing levels, removing background noise, and ensuring clarity.

4. Distribution (Sharing the Video)

- Download your final product.
- Publish to appropriate social media sites.
- Implement marketing strategies to get the most out of your video.
